California Hall of Fame

Local and national celebrities came out in force for the California Hall of Fame induction ceremony at the California Museum. Gov. Arnold Schwarzenegger and First Lady Maria Shriver welcomed 13 inductees such as Robert Mondavi, Tiger Woods, Rita Moreno, Willie Mays and Elizabeth Taylor. Among others attending were the families of inductees Milton Berle, Ansel Adams, John Steinbeck, Dr. Jonas Salk, John Wayne and Earl Warren. Honorees were treated to the red carpet and paparazzi attention. Photos: Tim Engle

1. Entertainment Tonight's Kevin Frasier interviews Tiger Woods on his award.

2. Rita Moreno, actress most known for her performance in "West Side Story," poses in front of the inductee exhibit wall with some fans from Accenture, a sponsor.

3. Patrick Wayne attended the event on behalf of his father, inductee and actor John Wayne.

4. Former Secretary of State George Schultz and his wife, Charlotte Schultz, chief of protocol for the city and county of San Francisco, walk the red carpet.

5. Ansel Adams' son Michael Adams, spoke at the honoree induction ceremony. He is chairman of the board of the Ansel Adams Galleries in Yosemite and Monterey, as well as a retired internist.

6. Patrick Wayne laughs with Willie Mays, inducted to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1979. Mays was the first to record 300 homers and 300 stolen bases.
