

News - Local - Breaking News

Tuesday, Dec. 16, 2008

Morro Bay's LaLanne inducted into California Hall of Fame

Staff and wire reports

 Comments (0) |  Recommend (0)

SACRAMENTO — Fitness guru Jack LaLanne of Morro Bay was among those inducted into the California Hall of Fame on Monday.

The California Museum in Sacramento is opening an exhibit to honor LaLanne, actors Jane Fonda and Jack Nicholson, and other 2008 inductees.

At a ceremony Monday, musicians Dave Brubeck and Quincy Jones, sculptor Robert Graham and chef Alice Waters were also inducted.

Inducted posthumously were "Dr. Seuss" author Theodor Geisel, photographer Dorothea Lange, architect Julia Morgan, scientist Linus Pauling and former Gov. Leland Stanford.

The exhibit opens today and features memorabilia from this year's inductees, including Nicholson's Joker costume from the 1989 movie, "Batman."

First lady Maria Shriver started the program in 2006 to honor people who have helped shape the state.

— Associated Press contributed to this report.

BOOKMARK

 MY Y!

 E-MAIL

 PRINT

TEXT SIZE:  